Reading at home:

I have set up a reading account for our class for reading for homework.

It's on the website www.oxfordowl.co.uk

Go to oxford owls for schools to login and type in the following details:

Username: msfenton1st.reading Password:
Readingroom14

If you have any problems logging in, contact me please.

Once logged in, you will have access to a variety of readers.

Click on Oxford Owl ebook Library.

Levels

Select age group 4-7. Oxford reading tree series is very good for this level. Pick a book and see does it suit your son's level.

Use the 5 word rule to test this:

If you find your son is well able to read at this level, work through the books and move up the series as he finishes a book.

If you find your son is finding this age group tricky, move down to a lower age group. It is fine if you need to do this, it's all about finding a book that suits your son's level!

The aim is to read for 10/15 minutes per night. You can also listen to parts of the story too using audio section before/after reading.

As reading books are not being sent home for homework at this time, this website is a good alternative to providing reading homework and also allows your son to pick from a wide variety of books and themes to read about. It is so important that your son is engaged and finds the book interesting!

I will be showing the boys the website so they are aware of it and we will be chatting about the books they are reading at home in class each week.

I hope you find this helpful and enjoy the reading,

Mrs. Fenton
